Office work today is increasingly being conducted in open-plan office environments. To ensure that these environments meet the needs of their users they must offer retreat zones that make it possible for them to concentrate on individual work, carry on telephone conversations undisturbed and hold informal meetings. The Alcove Highback Sofa product range serves exactly these purposes. The various sofas offer protection from acoustic and visual stimuli. Fitted with writing shelves, they also facilitate working on a laptop or with documents for a longer period of time. The Alcove Highback System even allows for individual configurations. Alcove Highback Work featuring a leather-covered writing shelf and integrated cable guide is perfect for concentrating on individual work.

Retreat

The Alcove Highback Sofas all have high side and back panels and are more than just pieces of furniture: Sitting in one of these sofas is like being in a space of one's own, hardly visible to others and protected from surrounding office noises.

Concentrating on work tasks

The integrated writing shelf, the storage space beneath it and the ability to connect cables make Alcove Work a flexible place to retreat to for concentrating on individual work in an open-plan office.

Meetings

Positioned opposite each other, two Alcove Highback Sofas create a "meeting room" – without the need for any permanent components – that can be moved at any time. With a wide selection of colors and covers available, the Alcove Highback Sofas can easily be integrated into existing office environments.
